TEXAS
Pediatric Readiness Education Series

The Pediatric Readiness Education Series is a free, national webinar series delivered as a collaboration between the Emergency Medical Services for Children (EMSC) Innovation and Improvement Center (EIIC) and the Texas Pediatric Readiness Education Series. Building on the success of the Texas-led series, this co-effort expands the reach of Pediatric Readiness education while aligning content with national Pediatric Readiness priorities.

The monthly sessions will focus on common clinical conditions and experiences in the emergency department (ED) setting and are designed for ED clinicians and staff across disciplines, including nurses, physicians, advanced practice providers, administrators, and Pediatric Emergency Care Coordinators (PECCs). EMS clinicians are also welcome to attend.

All webinars are free, and nursing continuing education (CE) credit is available. The series is not affiliated with the Texas EMSC State Partnership Program.

Through this series, participants will:

- Gain practical, pediatric-focused education on priority topics such as mental health, airway management, traumatic brain injury (TBI), and pain and vital sign reassessment
- Learn from national experts in pediatric emergency care
- Explore strategies and tools aligned with national Pediatric Readiness priorities
- Receive free nursing CE credit upon completion of the session evaluation
